GIFT A CONSULTATION

BECAUSE YOU ARE THE BEST!

alright, my friend: which option feels right to you?

I am so excited you want to gift a name consultation to somebody special. You can go about this one of two ways:

1. The total surprise - you know them so well (or can sneakily gather all of the info!) that you can fill out the entire consultation form for them and their consultation will arrive in their inbox in just a few weeks! In that case, you can fill out the general consult form here. Just answer the questions as you think that your loved one would!
2. They're in on it - you can also fill out this gift form here. Once that's filled out, have your friend fill out this form. I've noticed a strange phenomenon, friends often overthink the gifted consultations and don't end up submitting their form. So this might require some gentle encouragement on your part to make sure they get it submitted.
